Memo to File:

RE: White River Shale Oil Corp.
White River Shale Project
ACT/047/017
Uintah County, Utah

On August 25, 1982, Susan Linner and Pam Grubaugh-Littig attended the monthly tract coordination meeting for the White River Shale Project in Bonanza, Utah. In attendance were staff from the Oil Shale Office, Vernal Office of the BLM, Uintah County Planning, White River Shale Oil Corporation, as well as DOGM.

All participants toured the construction site. Since DOGM's last field trip to the property, vigorous construction activity has taken place. The RV site has more occupants. The surface facility site is in the process of being leveled and prepared for building construction which will begin in two weeks. The permanent topsoil stockpile area is presently 15 feet high near the surface facility site. Within the month, the permanent control measures will be taken and the stockpile will be given to Cy McKell for revegetation research.

The road is now paved to the facility. The county roadsides have been prepared for reclamation.

There has been limited work done at the retention dam.

The remainder of the meeting consisted of notifying all participants about the status of permits and an update of the socioeconomic program.
